Hazardous Weather

Showers and an isolated thunderstorms will quickly diminish from north to south today in the wake of a cold front. The greatest rain chances this morning will be across portions of Deep East Texas into West Central and East Central Louisiana.

Tuesday: A rare July cold front continues to push through the region, with at least some scattered thunderstorms to be expected as it does so. With cooler and drier air starting to filter in behind the front, temperatures only rise into the mid 80s for afternoon highs. Skies will gradually clear from north to south beginning in the afternoon.

Showers and thunderstorms with slightly cooler temperatures

Weather Forecast Office
Corpus Christi, TX
Issued Jul 23, 2019 5:02 AM CDT

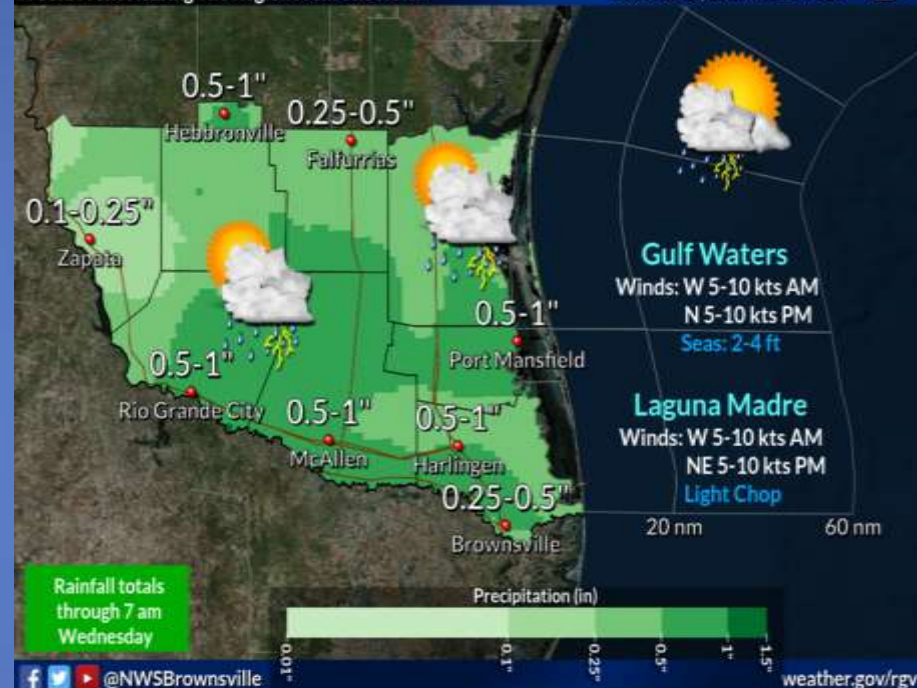

A cold front will move south across the area today bringing with it scattered showers and thunderstorms. Temperatures will be a bit cooler behind the front.

Shower and T'storm Chances Increase Today

A Cold Front Nearing The Region From The North

Weather Forecast Office
Brownsville/RGV, TX
Issued Jul 23, 2019 4:22 AM CDT

Showers and thunderstorm chances will be on the increase across the Rio Grande Valley and Deep South Texas today. Temperatures will still be warm, however, we all should remain below the century mark with the increased clouds and rain chances. The primary concern with thunderstorms will be frequent cloud-to-ground lightning and brief heavy rainfall. Winds will shift northerly or northeasterly as the front pushed southward toward the Rio later this evening and tonight.

Thunderstorms are possible today and tonight. Any storms that do develop will be accompanied by frequent lightning, small hail, gusty winds, and brief, heavy rainfall. Otherwise, below-normal temperatures are expected.

Isolated showers and thunderstorms this morning should come to an end by noon. Skies will clear from north to south behind the front this afternoon. Temperatures will be cooler, with highs ranging from the upper 80s across the Hill Country to the mid 90s along the Rio Grande. Winds will be out of the north northeast at 10 to 15 mph today behind the front.

Hazardous Weather

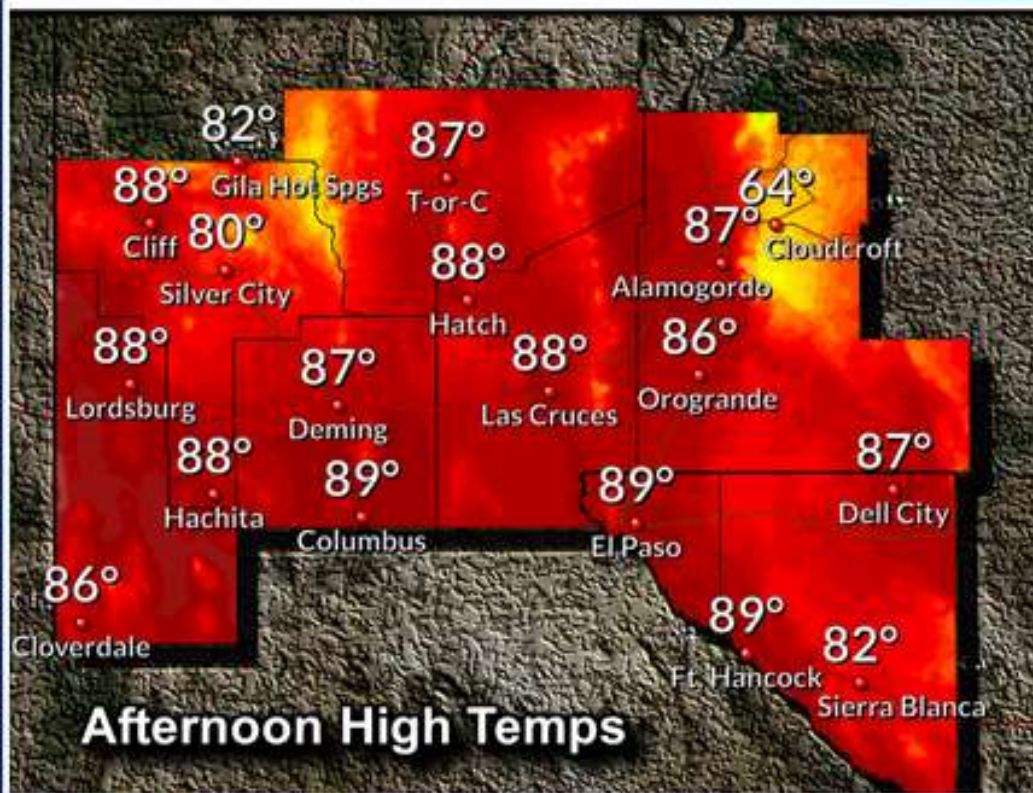

Tuesday: A break from the high heat.
